The Cumberland Now Controls all the Independent Exchanges.

It Will Give Southwest Kentucky a Complete Long Distance Service at Once.

BOUGHT LINES YESTERDAY

The Cumberland Telephone company now has control of every independent exchange in Southwest Kentucky, and will at once begin the work of connecting up every toll line in this end of the state, giving the people communication with all the post-offices and principal cities. The last deal was effective yesterday, when the Cumberland absorbed the West Kentucky Telephone Exchange in Fulton, and the projected Calloway county telephone company at Murray.

The Cumberland will at once begin spending large amounts of money, and will probably invest $50,000 or $100,000 in improvements, extensions and new lines.

The line down the N. C. and St. L. railroad will be commenced in a short time, and will be completed before the first of the year. It will connect Benton, Murray and the smaller towns with Paducah and with each other, and give the people in this section of the state the best possible long distance service.

Of the deals consummated yesterday, the Fulton Leader says: "The Cumberland Telephone company today took charge of the West Kentucky Telephone company of this city, the deal having been closed a few days ago. The Cumberland people paid $30,000 for the West Kentucky system. They also scooped in the Calloway County Telephone company of Murray, paying $6,800 for same. The West Kentucky operated several exchanges, all of which are included in the deal. The local company was owned principally by R. M. Chowning of Fulton and John E. Wright of Mayfield.

"The Cumberland people have been trying to buy out the local line for several years, and almost closed the deal last year, but a hitch occurred, and the sale was declared off. The deal this time is final.

"It is supposed that the Cumberland will consolidate the long distance exchange with the local exchange and use the local office regularly. It is understood that Mr. Robert Rosson of Martin will be transferred here by the Cumberland people as manager of their interests.

"A long distance line will soon be put in between Murray, Paducah and Paris."

Manager A. L. Joynes of the local exchange left this afternoon for Murray to look into the franchise of the company just bought out there.

RETURNS TO PADUCAH.

MR. BELL V. GIVEN RESIGNS WITH THE GULF AND SHIP ISLAND.

Mr. Bell V. Given, formerly time keeper at the local I. O., master mechanic department, has resigned his position with the Gulf and Ship Island road, which he had held for several months, and is now in the city, where he will remain.

Mr. Given has not decided what he will do yet, but will probably go into the railroad service here again. His many friends will be pleased to learn of his return.

Cleanings this week $532,213 Same week last year 427,060

Increase $105,153

The increase in cleanings the past week over the same period last year shows a heavy volume of business at the banks, the increase being nearly 25 per cent.

Wholesale business for the season is very good. The grocers report satisfactory trade, and the dry goods people report business opening up better than usual. With the whiskey houses trade is dull but this is the "off season." Prospects for the fall business for the whiskey people, however, were never better.

The announcement in the papers yesterday of the early starting of the furnace by the people with the means and the intentions to run the plant was the most pleasing piece of news of the year. The success of the iron furnace means more to Paducah than anything that could happen. The Commercial club has appreciated this act and has spent more time working on the proposition than any other thing ever before the organization. The success of an iron furnace would mean, in all probability, the establishment of kindred establishments that would call for very heavy investments.

The announcement with reference to the Alden Knitting Mills in another column of today's issue is very gratifying news. Paducah needs more such establishments.

Retail merchants report business very satisfactory.

NEW I. C. ATTORNEYS.

Wheeler, of Paducah, and Hughes, of Morganfield Appointed.

They Succeed the Old Law Firm of Quigley and Quigley of Paducah.

Congressman Charles K. Wheeler of Paducah and Hon. H. B. Hughes of Morganfield, Ky., were today notified of their appointment as attorneys for the Illinois Central railroad here, succeeding Quigley and Quigley.

The latter resigned about eight months ago, but the company would not accept the resignation. Recently, however, the health of Hon. I. M. Quigley has become so bad that it was impossible for the firm to retain the position, and the resignation was reluctantly accepted by the company.

The new firm takes charge Monday morning, and will occupy the office now occupied by Judge L. D. Husbands on legal row. The change dissolves the partnership of Wheeler and Worten, which has been in existence for the past several years, and establishes the one of Wheeler and Hughes.

Mr. Hughes is one of the leading lights of the Union county bar, and an able lawyer.

Mr. Worten, retiring partner of Wheeler and Worten, has formed no plans as yet.

Quigley and Quigley have been railroad attorneys here for the past twenty-five years or longer, and have always given the best of satisfaction. It was with regret that the Illinois Central gave them up.

The appointments above settles a matter that had been agitating the minds of local attorneys for some time, it being understood that a change was to be made.

A BIG CONCERN

Paducah Will Soon Have the Largest Knitting Mill in the Country

The George Wallace Company is to Place $18,000 Worth Machinery.

The George C. Wallace Company, lessees of the Knitting Mills, have ordered $18,000 worth of new machinery, which will arrive shortly, to be placed in their mammoth factory at Eighth and Jones streets, thus doubling its capacity.

It will then turn out daily 900 dozen pair of hose, and instead of employing about 95 people, employ about 200. This, it is claimed, will make it the largest exclusively knitting mill in the United States. The company has done a remarkable business since it was established, less than two years ago, and expects to make other improvements as the demand grows.

Judge Lightfoot Says Right of Way Money Must be Paid to Court.

The Railroad Company Cannot Be Prevented From Going Ahead with the Extension Work.

IT SEEMS TO BE JUST

County Judge R. T. Lightfoot yesterday afternoon heard arguments in the county court on the question of where the money awarded property owners whose land was condemned for the extension of the Illinois Central road to Cairo, should be paid when an appeal is desired, whether to the property owner or into court.

There has been no little interest in the question, and the decision had been awaited with considerable impatience by both railroad and property owners. Judge Lightfoot decided that the money must be paid into County Clerk Charles Graham's hands, where it remains until the appeal is decided. The railroad meanwhile takes possession of the strip of land desired and builds across it.

While there are some other provisions of the law that would on the surface seem to indicate otherwise, Judge Lightfoot's decision is based on the following statute:

Section 839—trial of exceptions—assessment of damages, appeal when company may take possession—Each party may appeal to the circuit court by executing bond as required in other cases, within thirty days, and the appeal shall be tried de novo, upon the confirmation of the report of the commissioners by the county court, or the assessment of damages by said court, as herein provided, and the payment to the owners of the amount due, as shown by the report of the commissioners when confirmed, or as shown by the judgment of the county court. When the damages are assessed by said court, and all costs adjudged to the owners, the railroad company shall be entitled to take possession of said land and material and to use and control the same for the purpose for which it was condemned, as fully as if the title had been conveyed to it, but when an appeal shall be taken from the judgment of the county court by the company, it shall not be entitled to take possession of the land or material condemned until it shall have paid into the court the damages assessed and all costs. All money paid into court under the provisions of this law, shall be received by the clerk of the court and held subject to the orders of the court, for which he and his sureties on his official bond shall be responsible of the persons entitled thereto.

In a number of instances there is reason to believe that the property owners have been awarded excessive values and damages for their property and the railroad company does not propose to submit to it, and yet does not want to be delayed in the work of extension. As its right of way would be secured irrespective of price, it is accorded the privilege of going ahead with its work. If the higher court decides that the amounts are just, the money will be there in court for the property owner, and if it decides it is too much, the railroad can simply pay the proper amount and take back the excess, where if the money had already been paid to the property owner instead of into court, the railroad would have to sue to recover the balance, and in many instances it might be unable to recover. The delay will accordingly be only to the property owner.

Marion Man Assaulted and Robbed of $200 and His Pistol Last Night

Was Badly Used Up By the Highwaymen, Who Made Good Their Escape at Once.

WOUNDS ARE QUITE SERIOUS

E. L. Dolan, of Marion, known as E. L. Knowles, claims he was knocked down and robbed of $200 and a fine Smith and Wesson revolver last night about 11:30 o'clock back of the Seabee saloon, at the alley coming from the rear of Chinese laundry.

Dolan was coming along by himself when he felt a blow on the back of the head just as he passed the alley. He fell forward and caught himself on the fence but at this juncture some one stepped in front of him and struck him in the top of the head, rendering him partially unconscious. He was dazed but managed to get his pistol out of his pocket. With this he struck his assailant but the weapon was knocked out of his hand by a blow on the arm. After tearing open his vest and the pocket on the inside of the vest, the men secured $200, and the pistol and left Dolan where he lay. Shortly after a negro came along and finding him unable to rise carried him to the New Richmond house where he was stopping.

Dolan said to a Sun reporter this morning:

"I was coming along unconscious that I was being watched or followed when I felt a blow on the back of my head. I grabbed my pistol just as some one struck me on the head from the front. In falling I struck the man who in return knocked my weapon out of my hand. They attacked me while on the ground and tore open my vest, secured about $200 and then fled."

Dolan was also seized from behind when the first blow was struck but being a powerful man wrenched himself out of their grasp. He said that it was too dark to recognize the man who struck him from the front but feel certain that there were three men in the affair. There are two ugly wounds in Dolan's head which were dressed by Dr. Jeff Robertson.

His arm is also badly bruised where the blow was dealt. He left at noon for Marion, his home, and while sore from the effects of the assault, is not seriously injured.

Dolan's condition when he left for home at noon seemed to be more serious than at first thought. He seems to still be in a dazed condition, and hardly knew what he was doing.

He did not talk very intelligently and his mind seemed to wander. His head seems to be causing him a great deal of trouble and when a pain strikes him it nearly causes a collapse.

The police have a police upon which they are working and think they will soon have the robbers under arrest. It is understood that Dolan had been gambling over a saloon and had won all the money he carried. He thinks he lost $250 but the officers have found it amounts to only about $175 or $200. It is thought that a sand bag was used on him as the skin is broken in one place only.

LOST HIS BARN.

Mr. William Rades, the well known coal mine owner, yesterday received information that his fine barn at Hillsboro mine burned Thursday night. Mr. Rades only left Thursday for the city, and knows nothing of the particulars. It is possible that the structure was burned by a discharged farm hand. The loss is about $1000.

ATTORNEY GENERAL DECIDES AGAINST HIM IN BREWERY AFFAIR.

Auditor's Agent Frank Lucas, of the city, has received notice of a decision of Attorney General Pratt, of Frankfort, relative to the license of $200 charged breweries. He decides that the Louisville brewery combine has to pay only one license, $200, and not a separate $200 in each of the breweries composing it. Agent Lucas has filed suits at Louisville to force each brewery to pay a license.

GUN CLUB

THE REGULAR SHOOT HELD YESTERDAY AFTERNOON AT LA BELLE.

The Paducah Gun club boys held an enjoyable live bird shoot yesterday afternoon at La Belle park. Mr. Ben Starr carried off the honors by killing nineteen straight, and Mr. Hal Walters came next by killing eighteen out of nineteen. In the nineteen bird match, the following scores were made: Brown 14, Moses Starr 16, Bronaugh 15, straight and dropped out on the fifteenth bird, Cowling 17, Cado Stewart 15, Hal Walters 18, Henry Arenz 11, W. A. Davis 17, Ben Starr 19, Menifee 5, Skinner 14, Walter Wilkins 17, Ben Weille 10, Dave Street 15, Nexall 17.

A BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.

The Calvert city correspondent of the Benton Tribune says: Mrs. Ira Bailey of Paducah, and Mrs. Virgil Hoover, west of town, celebrated their 53d birthday July 27 at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Hoover. The day will ever be fresh in the memory of those present, numbering over one hundred, for as night drew on they returned to their homes thinking that one of their happiest days had been spent with Mr. and Mrs. Hoover in their happy home with three beautiful daughters and one noble little son, age thirteen.

ONLY A SMALL WRECK.

The accident at Melrose yesterday which delayed the fast noon passenger train was small and amounted to little. Several cars in the first section of freight train No. 184 in place of Engineer Strange and Conductor O'Neill, were derailed at that place and one turned over on the main line. The train crew turned the car over and off the main line. A delay to all the passenger trains was occasioned but the one to No. 102 was the longest, over three hours.

THEATRICAL NEWS.

Both Creston Clarke and Walker Whitesides are among the spring attractions for The Kentucky.

"Along the Mohawk," with Annie Kingsley in the stellar role, will be here this season. It is a fine play, and has its initial production in Chicago this week.

Manager English has booked Grace Cameron, late prima donna of "The Liberty Bells," in the opera, "A Normandie Wedding." Thanksgiving afternoon and night.

Manager English's present intention is to formally open The Kentucky for the season about September 17th with "The Girl and the Judge," although the opening date may be changed later.

Mrs. Bruce, the celebrated English actress, will be here November 26th, the night before Thanksgiving, in "Enorma," and will on December 1st begin an engagement at Wal-lack's theatre, New York.

"Pickings from Puck," in which Miss Regina Merritt of Paducah has a part, will open at the Great Northern, Chicago, Monday. This is one of Manager English's shows. "Shooting the Chutes," but without Murray and Mack, with Gino Pixley as star, will open in Montreal August 24th.

A handsome matinee Souvenir is being prepared for presentation to each lady and gentleman attending matinee at La Belle park on Saturday, August 9. This souvenir will be a desirable thing, that will be greatly appreciated and preserved by all the recipients, and there is no doubt but that when once seen it will be greatly sought for.

Miss Mabel Rebert, leading lady of the Hopkins stock in New Orleans, and Frank De Leon, principal comedian of the Dearborn stock in Chicago, will probably be secured by Manager Schaffer for the winter season of the Middleton Stock Co. They will probably be here during the coming week, and will appear in the future presentations at the La Belle park theater.

There will be quite a number of changes at La Belle park theater during the coming week, members of the present company leaving for their winter engagements and others, who will go with the Middleton Stock Co., arriving. Members of this company will take places of those leaving so that presentations at the park will go along smoothly, but with the added attraction of new people and new specialty acts.

The Calhoun Trio—Miss Dora Calhoun, Roy Phelps and Vernie Phelps—who have been seen here with the Murray Comedy Co., have been engaged for the winter season by the Middleton Stock Co. They will arrive here tomorrow, Sunday, and for the rest of the summer season will take places of some of the present company at La Belle park theater who will shortly leave for their winter engagements. Miss Dora Calhoun will appear in "The Circus Girl," beginning Monday, and the others of the trio will begin the week of the 11th. Their sensational specialties will prove a great attraction at the park.

Graceful Women

A taste for perfect figure is inseparable from a love of the beautiful.

The secret of the bell-shaped, violet or rose as perfect as the lovely flowers whose breath they are, and while the lives of flowers are brief and we can only enjoy them for a day, the beautiful woman enjoys the pleasure of her figure to us as a permanent blessing. The sweet, pure breath of the flower is suggestive of innocence and health—the soft fragrance of a beautiful woman suggests to the senses purity, health and elegance; she is the refinement of civilization; she is indicative of a desire to please, an index of good taste, and an unerring badge of gentility.

Particularly fine work is done by individual members of the company, and is highly appreciated. The specialties again went big, and Miss Phelps and Mr. Parker can feel proud of their successes.

Tonight the play will receive its last presentation and those who have not seen it should not miss the chance, as it is one of the best that has been given by repertoire companies in Paducah.

THE PERFECT LIVER MEDICINE

Mrs. M. A. Jolley, Noblo, O. T., writes: "I have used Herbine for a number of years, and can cheerfully recommend it as the most perfect liver medicine, and the greatest blood purifier. It is a medicine of positive merit, and fully accomplishes all that is claimed for it." Malaria cannot find lodgment in the system while the liver is in perfect order, for one of its functions is to prevent the absorption of fever producing poisons. Herbine is a most efficient liver regulator. 50c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

Spurs a Sign of Freedom.

During the middle ages the wearing of the spur was regarded as a sign of freedom. The vassal to whose feet it was fastened swore fidelity to his suzerain. The wearing of spurs soon spread to such an extent that even the clergy followed the fashion set by the knights. But this custom did not long endure; as a council of nobles and bishops held in 816 the clergy were forbidden to wear spurs. The spurs of knights were of gold, to distinguish them from the spurs of serfs, which were of silver.

The Week In Society.

IN NICOTINA.

Oh! she was a gay little cigarette,
And he was a fat cigar;
And side by side on a tabouret
The stood in a ginger jar.
Though 'nary a word could I understand,
(For they chatted in a tobaec)
Yet wonderful things I am sure they planned
As lovers do—alack!
Today she's a sad little cigarette,
For gone is her brave cigar;
And all alone on the tabouret
She stands in the ginger jar.
Ah! love is a marvelous thing 'tis
true,
And many a fault 'twill cloak;
But oft it ends as the dreams of these two,
In nothing at all but smoke.

APPROPOS OF SOCIETY.

There has been just enough of a social breeze stirring this week to keep from a "dead calm," which is perhaps as much as any one could hope these days. The first of the week it seemed there would be "nothing doing," so inert had society become, but a few have risen superior to heat and the listlessness that is becoming more marked in the later summer, and have nobly thrown themselves into the breach.

It is essentially the day of the younger set, however, the older ones are content to enjoy life quietly these summer evenings, but not so those whose vacation days are flying by all too swiftly. Little they care for heat; their spirits defy environment; and they make the chiefest gaiety of social life just now. The weather has been of all sorts and kinds, but in many instances it has only changed
the port for which the pleasure boats were bound.

A HOME WEDDING.

A pretty wedding was that of Mrs.
Rowena Trainum Rivers to Mr.
Jacob Henry Hirsch of Jackson, Tenn., on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, at the bride's home on West Jefferson street. It was a very quiet affair, and marked by extreme simplicity of detail. The bride wore a prettily decorated for the occasion, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. Pinkerton of the First Christian church. Only the immediate friends and some out-of-town guests were present. The bride wore a handsome gown of tan tulle, with hat to match, and looked extremely well. She entered with her nephew, Mr. Ernest Reid of Clinton, Ky., and was met by the groom and his best man, Mr. Adamson of Jackson, Tenn.

Immediately after the ceremony
Mr. and Mrs. Hirsch left by way of St. Louis on an extended western tour that will cover all the principal cities and points of interest to Seattle, and will last until the middle of September. Their future home will be 388
Highland Avenue, Jackson, Tenn.

Mrs. Hirsch has occupied a leading place here in church and philanthropic work of the city, and is a fine woman, who will make friends in her new home.

MRS. VORIS' CHARMING MORN- ING IN HONOR OF VISITORS.

Mrs. Victor Voris gave a very charming informal morning on Wednesday in honor of Miss Tutt, of St.
Louis, and Miss Douglas, of Washington, D. C., the guests of Miss Louise Cox. There were three tables of fan-tasco and two tables of ping pong, and the occasion was most delightful.
The attractive Voris home on West Broadway lends itself as readily as an artistic setting for summer morning
as winter afternoon parties, the pretty rooms on this occasion being a bower of ferns and in every detail suggesting coolness. Delightful ping-pong punch, ginger, tea cream, and cake were attractively served.

Mrs. Voris' guests were: Misses Edwina Tutt, of St. Louis, Katherine
Douglas, of Washington, D. C., Mary Hirsch, of Jackson, Tenn., and Miss Phyllis, of St. Louis. The latter was little to do with it, but the sister, who is the long freeze of Louisiana winters. All the vegetable matters were killed

The Mrs. Voris' evening was spent in dancing and later a wagon was secured and the party with the band of music went serenading. A very jolly time was enjoyed. Mrs.
Thompson and Miss Hallie Hisey
chaperoned the party who were: Miss Laura Jobe of Jackson, Tenn., Misses
Lillie Mae Winstead, Blanche Hills,
Benlah Rogers, Ethel Brooks, May
Davis, Elsie Bagby, Willie Cornelius,

Terrell. Messrs. Roscoe Reed, David
Rogers, Horace Sowell, Robert Dorris,

Smith, Charlie Cox, Walter Iverson, George DuBois.

A PICNIC SUPPER IN-DOORS.

A delightfully informal picnic supper was enjoyed on Thursday evening at the home of Miss Jennie Young on West Broadway. It had been arranged for La Bello park but the rain drove the party indoors. The affair was a pleasant compliment to Miss Patti Thomason of Frankfort and Miss Enla Russell of Nashville, Tenn., attractive visitors in the city. Those composing the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baker, Mr. and Mrs. P. E.
Stutz, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hillings,
Mrs. Will Young, Mrs. Covington,
Misses Patti Thomason, Enla Russell, Jennie Young, Flora Davidson,

honored as professor of special pathology of the faculty of the University of Tennessee. This is the fourth time this distinguished honor has been paid
Dr. Howell and proves that his talents and ability are receiving deserved recognition abroad. Dr. Howell is a rising young man, and his host of friends here are highly gratified at the success that comes his way, having a very "I told you so" kind of look when they hear it.

PLEASANT SURPRISE PARTY.

Miss Winstead. A most delightful evening was spent. The attendance was large and included most of the younger society set.

SECRETARY ESCOTT TO LEAVE.

Much regret has been expressed over the resignation of Secretary W. G. Escott of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Escott is a tireless worker and a pleasant,

DAILY THOUGHT.

We can only be valued as we make ourselves valuable. —Emerson.

The operations of the strikers in the mining district are restricted to
"grand rallies" since the militia arrived on the scene.

The governor of Iowa declares the Rock Island re-organization is a scheme. He had better watch out, or the Rock Island will absorb him.

If the same jury doesn't try all the railroad condemnation cases, the measures evidently all went to the same school together, judging from the similarity
of the verdicts.

General Jake Smith was very much wrought up when he received news of his retirement, according to the dispatches. But then you can't believe all you see in the newspapers.

New York has just laid off $65,000 worth of police officers, which has prompted the late cops to threaten to secede. It is remarkable how little a policeman knows until you get him riled.

Colonel Arthur Lynch, on trial in London for treason by joining the Boer forces, is trying to extricate himself
by claiming he went as a newspaper correspondent. His courage in going back to beard the lion in its den was
of rather doubtful quality, after all.

Explorer Baktwin has returned to report that he didn't reach the North Pole, just as if anyone expected him to. He says he was "battered but not beaten," and will go back next year, barring, of course, a visitation in the meantime
of the fool killer.

The city should take immediate steps to build a new city hospital in a suitable location. It is a pity that Mr. Carnegie didn't offer Paducah a hospital, as well as a library. Probably if he could read a report of the investigation and see just how badly Paducah needs a hospital, he would offer us one.

The new system of polling the city, established by Chief Collins, should prove beneficial in many ways to the taxpayers. It will not only insure police on every beat at all hours,
but will guarantee a better and more uniform method of bringing law breakers to justice. The change requires the officers to all work longer, but if any of them is dissatisfied he is not saying much, because all who don't like it would be advised to quit.

It is very foolish to offer for negligence of duty or any sort of shortcomings in office, the excuse that the pay is not sufficient. There is nothing to compel any man or woman to hold any public office if the salary is insufficient. They know what it is before they accept the place, and if it proves unsatisfactory, resigning is the work of but a short time.

Paducah's Commercial club reminds one of the advertisement for a certain patent medicine, "It works while you sleep." The general public knows little about its unassuming efforts, but it is working quietly and effectively all the time, and when it does anything, it is usually something big. The resumption of the iron furnace, while directly a result of the investment of capital, is indirectly due to the efforts of the club
and its officers to locate the company here. The operation of the big concern will mean the inception of an industry that can but be a credit to Paducah, both financially and commercially. It will mean one hundred more men with steady employment, spending their money among the merchants, while the ore industry will have a very perceptible effect on the steamboat business, as it seems probable that the company, having unlimited resources, will eventually establish a line of tow boats to bring their ore here to supply the furnace. The people of Paducah should be very proud of the success of the Commercial club in landing the plant.

NO COMPS.

OUTSIDERS WILL HAVE TO PAY
TO GO TO RAILROAD
PICNIC.

It is understood that the Illinois Central picnic committee, by orders of the shop employees, have issued instructions to give no complimentary tickets away, but to sell all for 25 cents. This will of course keep back a number of outsiders who would have gone had the tickets been given complimentary. For the past two years there have been so many outsiders attending the picnic that the committee found it necessary to cut down that number so that more convenience and comfort be given the shop employes and families during the ride to the picnic grounds.

REGULAR INSPECTION.

SUPT. DAILEY AND TRAINMAS-
TER T. A. BANKS HERE TODAY.

Mr. J. O. Dailey, superintendent of the Louisville division of the Illinois Central and Trainmaster T. A. Banks are in the city today making an inspection of the terminals here.

This is the regular monthly inspection and everything was found to be in excellent condition. After the inspection here this morning they left for the division where they will continue the inspection. They will take in all the division this time.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The colored teachers' institute will begin Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the Lincoln building and will remain in session for five days. A large attendance is promised. The colored teachers are taking a lively interest in the coming institute and will do all in their power to make it the best in attendance and otherwise that has ever been held.

THEY WERE MARRIED

Kentucky Couple Claims to Have Been Married Before They Were

Relatives Went Down to Investigate and Learned the Facts at Metropolis.

PEOPLE NOT WELL KNOWN HERE

The Metropolis Herald of yesterday tells the following story of supposed Paducah people and their marriage
there. Neither name, however, appears in the city directory:

"William W. Ford, and Nettie Arnett, both of Paducah, were married in this city July 9th by County Clerk Atwell. They had lived together nine months previous to this time as man and wife, claiming that they had been married here in October, 1901.
Relatives of the woman disbelieved
this story, however, and wrote to County Clerk Atwell to ascertain whether or not the couple had really been married here. In the letter, however, the girl's name was given as Nettie Estes, that being her maiden name. She had been married to a man by the name of Arnett, but had secured a divorce from him and her maiden name had been restored, as is the custom in Kentucky when a divorce is granted. Captain Atwell found no couple of the name given under the list of licenses granted during the month of October.

"This did not satisfy the woman's kinsmen, and as they wished to be certain of the truth before they took any steps to separate the young people.

"Rev. Boling and a Mr. Estes, of McCracken county, an uncle and brother of the girl, came over to this city this morning to look over the license record. After much searching, the names of William A. Ford and Nettie Arnett, of Paducah, were found entered on July 9, 1902. The gentlemen were much pleased to find that the couple had been married, though they did not like the fact of their waiting so long before being lawfully united.

"The couple had become frightened at the attitude of the woman's relatives and had married about the time that the gentlemen who were over here this morning decided to investigate."

ARM BROKEN.

BARNEY FIELDS INJURED IN A FALL AT LA BELLE PARK.

Barney Fields, the 15-year-old son of Contractor Imm Fields, who is building the gun club house at La Belle park, fell from the house yesterday afternoon late and fractured the left fore arm badly. Dr. H. P. Sights was called and dressed the injury.
The fall was not so great, but the boy lost his balance and did not alight right, falling on his arm.

ASKS $2,000 DAMAGES.

A. Connors, through Attorneys
Cross and Houser, has filed suit against the Paducah Street Railway company for $2,000 damages for alleged injuries received by the wheel of his wagon coming off near the depot, throwing him out. He alleges the car track forced the wheel off.

Immense Transatlantic Mail.

A transatlantic steamer, carrying what is called "a full mail," usually brings 200,000 letters and 800 sacks of newspapers for London, to say nothing of the 500 and odd sacks for other places.

LAID THE BLAME ON THE GOD PAN.

Ancient Greeks Had Ingenious Explanation for Fear.

We use the word panic, or panic fear,
for a needless or ill-grounded fright.
What Marshal Saxe terms is cour bu-main, is no other than fear occasioned by surprise. It is owing to that cause that an ambush is generally so destructive; intelligence of it beforehand renders it harmless. The following curious relation speaks of the origin of the term.

"It sometimes happens with the ancient Greeks, well disciplined and commonly brave as their armies are, that a body of troops, without any attack being made or threatened, would take upon them to disperse and fly for their lives, leaving their camps and baggage, throwing away their arms,
running over hill and dale for days and nights, till their legs and their fright were out together.

"As they were philosophers enough to know that there could be no net
without a motive, they excused themselves on these occasions by saying, that the god Pan, a shaggy and venerable person, with goat's feet, had appeared to them, and that it consequently became them, as pious persons, to do their utmost to break their necks in a fright; hence the phrase,
panic terror.—Mirror.

THE GENTLE ART OF HYPNOTISM.

Purchaser of a Gold Brick Not Responsible for His Act.

"The art of selling," said an old book agent at the St. James Hotel, "is simply the science of hypnotism—unconscious hypnotism. The merit of the object you offer, your personality, your conversation or manner have little to do with it. The most strong-minded, obstinate man is as susceptible of buying a gold brick, if you catch him in the passive state, as the southern negress who buys half straighteners.

"Why does a man purchase a red necktie when he entered the haberdashery fully determined to order a blue one? Simply that he's in a passive state and the clerk exerts his unconscious mesmeric power to work off
the red ones, of which he is overstocked.

"The 'force trick' with playing cards is nothing but quick hypnosis. The personal magnetism of certain actors, preachers and orators is the same thing. If people understood this more they would be cautious in permitting themselves to fall into the passive state, and many abuses would be avoided."

GAIN HEALTH IN PHILIPPINES.

Weak and Frail Improve Under Peculiar Climate Conditions.

Although the Philippines have not been heretofore regarded as a particularly healthful place, the experience of our troops there since 1898 has shown some remarkable physical results.

While local fevers and intestinal diseases seem to have been particularly disastrous to men and women of feeble habit, and caused them to lose flesh and vitality, thin and anemic
people stationed there have improved in blood and vitality and increased in weight. In many cases the frail and delicate have become younger in feeling and actually taken on a new lease of life.

The climate is said to be especially beneficial in cases of rheumatism. According to a medical officer, it is the vigorous one who returns to the states sickened and disgusted, while the weak and frail there become strong and robust.

Odd Damage Suit.

A novel suit is on in Hardinburg,
Ky., the seat of a fashionable academy for girls. Four fair students, escaped from their rooms at midnight
by means of a ladder of ropes and partook of a supper with four young men.
The girls were expelled and the fathers of three of them, refusing to pay the bills for their tuition, have brought action to recover damages from the seminary on the ground that the institution failed to exert and exercise the proper care over and failed to give proper moral instruction to the offenders, thereby permitting them to commit improprieties whereby their good names and reputations have been injured.

As to Fallures.

Have you failed at a certain point
in your life? Be sure you will be successful in that same place again. The same thing will meet you until there has been such a triumph over it that it can never trouble you any more.

PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY.

William Weaver, of the city, through his attorneys Wheeler and Werten, this afternoon filed a petition in bankruptcy giving liabilities to the amount of $1,261.39.

Edison's System Will.

There is a sparkling even fizzling quality in Edison's repartee, which is usually a stinging or scorching. People generally approach the heavy, self-contained looking figure expecting a display of power in technical import, hence their surprise.

The wizard was approached the other day by an enterprising lightning rod agent anxious for some word of praise for his wares from the great man. Edison was non-committal.

"Well," said the lightning rod man at last, "do you approve of lightning rods, anyway?"

"It depends upon the building," said Edison.

"But is it any good in any case? Would you advise their use on churches for instance?" ventured the rod man.

"Well," replied Edison, with a twinkle, "they might be of some use on churches. It does look as though Providence were a bit absent-minded at times."—Columbian News.

GREAT DECREASE.

THE NUMBER OF DEATHS CONTINUE TO FALL OFF.

The report of the number of deaths during the past month show only 36 deaths, something like half a dozen less than the month previous.

All monthly reports show a steady decrease in the mortality rate and the health of the city is therefore shown to be steadily bettering. Dr. Graves, the health officer, says in regard to the improving health that the sewerage has a little to do with it, but the principal cause is the long freeze of the past two winters. All the vegetable and animal matters were killed to a certain extent by the prolonged freeze, and the earth was therefore left in a much better condition. There seems to be a difference in opinion among the doctors as to what is responsible for the improvement, but they all agree that it is improved and that there has been less illness during the past two years than ever before in the history of the city.

Will Tell by Chamberlain.

For a number of years Mr. Chamberlain, the English statesman, was never seen without an orchid in his button-hole. It is hinted that he made the change because of this clever line in Watson's "Spontaneous Tribute": "You shall know him by the orchid in the coat that he has turned."

A LIVELY MEETING

School Board Holds Its Regular Meeting Tuesday.

A Number of Important Reports are to be Read at the Session.

There will be much business transacted at the meeting of the school board Tuesday night and Superintendent Hatfield will present his annual report on the conditions of the schools, attendance, the cost of running and many other items of interest in regard to the operation of the schools during the past year.

He has not yet finished making out the report, but will have it completed in time to read in full to the board.

The committee on schools will also make a report of the placing of the teachers. This has been made out for ten days, a meeting having been called before Chairman Winstead left the city. No forecast of the placing could be gotten as changes might be made even after the assignments have been given the teachers.

The committee on course of study will also make a report but this will not differ from that of last year. A substantial course was selected last year, and consequently no changes of any consequence will be made.

The building committee will report the condition of the schools and also the progress made in the contract work.

The secretary will make an annual report of the financial conditions of the schools for the past year, and Superintendent Hatfield's annual report to the superintendent of state schools. H. V. He Has Agreed to Wait a Few Days and Think the Matter Over.

Mayor Yelser said this morning that he did not think Dr. J. E. Coyle, the city physician, would resign as he had advised him to wait a few days and think the matter over.

"Dr. Coyle is a nice gentleman and a fine physician and one of the best city physicians we have ever had," Mayor Yelser said, "and it would be a loss to the city to have to give up his services. I think that harmony can be restored, and think there is no more cause for trouble in the hospital."

Dr. Coyle agreed to wait a few days and think the matter over. This afternoon he announced he will not resign.

Dental Crime Reported from Italy. A sensational crime is reported from Positano, Italy. A young woman moving in the best society of Naples was captivated by the charms of a picturesque "lezzarone" and such was her infatuation that she met him in the garden of her father's villa at Positano and giving him a revolver asked him to kill her and to die with her. The brute shot her dead and was leaving the garden when he was stopped by the mother, who hastened to the spot at the report of the revolver. He fired on the mother, who expired the next day. The murderer was arrested. He said that he intended to commit suicide after arranging his affairs.

THE COURIER OF THE CZAR

By Jules Verne

CHAPTER IV.

UST as the reading of the proclamation by the head of the police came to an end, an idea darted instinctively into the mind of Michael Strogoff.

"What a singular coincidence," thought he, "between this proclamation expelling all foreigners of Asiatic origin and the words exchanged last evening between those two gypsies of the Zingari race! 'The father himself sends us where we wish to go,' that old man said. 'But the father is the emperor. He is never called anything else among the people. How could those gypsies have foreseen the measure taken against them? How could they have known it beforehand, and where do they wish to go? Those are suspicious people, and it seems to me that to them the government's proclamation must be more useful than in others.'"

But these reflections, though certainly correct, were completely dispelled by another, which drove every other thought out of Michael's mind. He forgot the Zingaris, their suspicious words, the strange coincidence which resulted from the proclamation. The remembrance of the young Livonian girl suddenly rushed into his mind.

"Poor child!" he thought to himself. "She cannot now cross the frontier."

In truth the young girl was from Riga. She was Livonian, consequently Russian, and now could not leave Russian territory. The permit which had been given her before the new measure had been promulgated was evidently no longer available. All routes to Siberia had just been pitilessly closed to her, and whatever was the motive which was taking her to Irkutsk, she was now forbidden to go there.

This thought greatly occupied Michael Strogoff. He said to himself vaguely at first, that without neglecting anything of what was due to his important mission it would perhaps be possible for him to be of some use to this brave girl, and this idea pleased him. Knowing how serious were the dangers which he, an energetic and vigorous man, would have personally to encounter through a country of which, however, the roads were familiar, he could not conceal from himself how infinitely greater they would prove to a young, unprotected girl. As she was going to Irkutsk, she would be obliged to follow the same road as himself; she would have to pass through the hands of robbers, as he was about to attempt doing himself. If, moreover, and according to all probability, she had at her disposal only the resources necessary for a journey taken under ordinary circumstances, how could she manage to accomplish it under conditions which late events would render not only perilous, but expensive?

"Well," said he, "if she takes the route to Perm it is nearly impossible but that I shall fall in with her. Then I will watch over her without her suspecting it, and as she appears to be as anxious as myself to reach Irkutsk she will cause no delay."

But one thought leads to another. Michael Strogoff had till now reasoned on the supposition of doing a kind action, of rendering a service, but now another idea dashed into his brain, and the question presented itself under quite a new aspect.

"The fact," said he to himself, "that I have much more need of her than she can have of me. Her presence will be useful in drawing off suspicion from me. A man traveling alone, and the police may be easily guessed to be a courier to the czar. If, on the contrary, this young girl accompanies me, I shall appear in the eyes of all the Nicholas Korpanoff of my podorofna. Therefore she must accompany me. Therefore I must find her again at any cost. It is not probable that since yesterday evening she has been able to get a carriage and leave Nijni Novgorod. I must look for her. And may God guide me!"

Michael left the great square of Nijni Novgorod, where the tumult produced by the entering out of the prescribed measures had now reached its height. Recruitations from the banished strangers, shents from the agents and Cossacks who were using them so brutally, all together made an indescribable uproar. The girl for whom he searched could not be there. It was now 11 o'clock in the morning. The steamboat did not start till 12. Michael Strogoff had therefore nearly three hours to employ in searching for her whom he wished to make his traveling companion.

He crossed the Volga again and hunted through the quarters on the other side, where the crowd was much less considerable. He visited every road, both in the high and low towns. He entered the churches, the natural refuge for all who weep for all who suffer. Nowhere did he meet with the young Livonian.

"And yet," he repeated, "she could not have left Nijni Novgorod yet. We'll have another look."

Michael wandered about thus for two hours. He went on without stopping, feeling no fatigue, but obeying the potent instinct which allowed him no room for thought. All was in vain.

It thus occurred to him that perhaps the girl had not heard of the order, though this was improbable enough, for such a thunderclap could not have burst without being heard by all. Evidently interested in knowing the smallest news from Siberia, how could she be ignorant of the measures taken by the government—measures which concerned her so directly? But if she was ignorant of it she would come in no hour to the quay, and there some mercenary agent would brutally refuse her a passage. At any cost he must see her beforehand and do what he could to enable her to avoid such a repulse.

But all his endeavors were in vain, and he at length almost despaired of finding her again.

It was now 11 o'clock, and Michael, though under any other circumstances it would have been useless, thought of presenting his podorofna at the office of the head of police. The proclamation evidently did not concern him, since the emergency had been foreseen for him. But he wished to make sure that nothing would hinder his departure from the town.

Michael then returned to the other side of the Volga, to the quarter in which was the office of the head of police.

Every one was in a hurry, for the means of transport would be much sought after among this crowd of banished people, and those who did not seek it soon ran a great risk of not being able to leave the town in the prescribed time, which would expose them to some brutal treatment from the governor's agents.

Owing to the strength of his elbows, Michael Strogoff was able to cross the court. But to get into the office and up to the clerk's little window was a much more difficult business. However, a word into an inspector's ear and a few judiciously given rubles were powerful enough to gain him a passage. The man, after taking him into the waiting room, went to call the proper clerk.

Michael Strogoff would not be long in making everything right with the police and being free in his movements. While waiting he looked about him, and what did he see? There, farther rather than seated on a bench, was a girl, a prey to silent despair, although her face could scarcely be seen, the profile alone being visible against the wall.

Michael Strogoff could not be mistaken. He instantly recognized the young Livonian.

Not knowing the governor's orders, she had come to the police office to get her pass signed. They had refused to sign it. No doubt she was authorized to go to Irkutsk, but the order was peremptory: It annulled all previous authorizations, and the routes to Siberia were closed to her. Michael, delighted at having found her again, approached the girl.

She looked up for a moment, and her face brightened on recognizing her traveling companion. She instinctively rose, and, like a drowning man who clutches at a spar, she was about to ask his help. At that moment the agent touched Michael on the shoulder.

"The head of police will see you," he said.

"Good!" returned Michael, and without saying a word to her for whom he had been searching all day, without reassuring her by even a gesture which might compromise either her or himself, he followed the man through the crowd.

The young Livonian, seeing the only being to whom she could look for help disappear, fell back again on her bench.

Three minutes had not passed before Michael Strogoff reappeared, accompanied by the agent. In his hand he held his podorofna, which threw open the roads to Siberia for him. He again approached the young Livonian, and holding out his hand, "Sister," said he. She understood. She rose as if some sudden inspiration prevented her from hesitating a moment.

"Sister," repeated Michael Strogoff, "we are authorized to continue our journey to Irkutsk. Will you come?"

"I will follow you, brother," replied the girl, putting her hand into that of Michael Strogoff, and together they left the police station.

Michael Strogoff and the young Livonian had taken passage on board the Caucasus. Their embarkation was made without any difficulty. As is known, the podorofna, drawn up in the name of Nicholas Korpanoff, authorized this merchant to be accompanied on his journey to Siberia. They appeared, therefore, to be a brother and sister traveling under the protection of the imperial police. Both, seated together at the stern, gazed at the receding town so disturbed by the governor's order. Michael had as yet said nothing to the girl. He had not even questioned her. He waited until she should speak to him when ever that was necessary. She had been anxious to leave that town, in which but for the providential intervention of this unexpected protector she would have remained imprisoned. She said nothing, but her looks spoke her thanks.

The Caucasus had been steaming on for about two hours when the young Livonian, addressing herself to Michael Strogoff, said:

"Are you going to Irkutsk, brother?"

"Yes, sister," answered the young man. "We are both going the same way. Consequently wherever I go you shall go."

"Tomorrow, brother, you shall know why I left the shores of the Baltic to go beyond the T'ral mountains."

"I ask you nothing, sister."

"You shall know all," replied the girl, with a faint smile. "A sister should hide nothing from her brother. But I cannot today. Fatigue and sorrow have broken me down."

"Will you go and rest in your cabin?" asked Michael.

"Yes, yes, and tomorrow!"—

"Come, then!"—

He hesitated to finish his sentence as if he had wished to end it by the name of his companion, of which he was still ignorant.

"Nadia," said she, holding out her hand.

"Come, Nadia," answered Michael, "and make what use you like of your brother Nicholas Korpanoff." And he led the girl to the cabin engaged for her on the steamer.

Michael Strogoff remained on deck, and, engaged for any news which might bear on his journey, he mingled in the groups of passengers, though without taking any part in the conversation. Should he by any chance be questioned and obliged to reply he would announce himself as the merchant Nicholas Korpanoff, going back to the frontier in the Caucasus, for he did not wish it to be suspected that a special permission authorized him to travel to Siberia.

The young Livonian did not come to dinner. She was asleep in her cabin. And Michael did not like to awaken her.

Between 11 and 2, the moon being new, it was almost dark. Nearly all the passengers were then asleep on the deck, and the silence was disturbed only by the noise of the paddles striking the water at regular intervals. Aulet kept Michael Strogoff awake. He walked up and down, but always in the stern of the steamer. Once, however, he happened to pass the engine room. He then found himself in the part reserved for second and third class passengers.

He stopped. Voices appeared to come from a group of passengers enveloped in cloaks and wraps, so that it was impossible to recognize them in the dark. But it sometimes happened that when the steamer's chimney sent forth a plume of ruddy flames among the volumes of smoke the sparks seemed to fall among the group as though thousands of sparks had been suddenly illuminated. Michael was about to step up the ladder when a few words reached his ear, distinctly uttered in that strange tongue which he had heard during the night at the fair.

Instinctively he stopped to listen. Protected by the shadow of the fore-castle, he could not be perceived himself. As to seeing the passengers who were talking, that was impossible. He was obliged to confine himself to listening.

The first words exchanged were of no importance—to him at least—but they allowed him to recognize the voices of the man and woman whom he had heard at Nijni Novgorod. This, of course, made him redouble his attention. It was, indeed, not at all impossible that the gypsies, a scrap of whose conversation he had overheard, now listened with all their fellows, should be on board the Caucasus.

Surprised the Women.

When Frank H. Stockton planned out his book of "Tommy's Travels" and was about ready to write it he resided in Philadelphia. He had a business appointment with his dentist, an old friend, one day, when the following incident which he relates occurred: "While in the chair I got in talking with this friend about my new book," he says. "I told him I had serious thoughts of killing that baby. He was much interested. We talked over the advisability of doing this, and while he was not quite convinced he in the main agreed with me. I had been finished with, and clasping his hand went into the waiting room on my way out. The waiting room was filled with women. As I passed through the door I heard him call: 'Then you have positively decided to kill that baby?' 'Positively,' I replied. You should have seen the women stare. It was not until I got well out in the hallway that I realized what they must, of course, have been thinking."

Boys of the Belt.

In the days of the highland clans, the chieftain was a great man indeed. As often as not he was a well-bred scholar, and his word was law within the glens and moors where his followers lived. When he paid a formal visit he was attended by a number of personal servants, who were called familiarly, "the boys of his belt." Highland pride was such that it soon passed into proverb. His bodyguard in peace was composed of his henchman (or right-hand man), poet (or bard), orator, armor-bearer, horse leader, knapsack carrier, piper and piper's man, gillie to carry him pickaback over streams, and a dozen other all-arounding young fellows without especial duty save to do his bidding. When on his native heath, a highland chieftain was either a dignified gentleman or a dangerous and daring enemy of great resource, cunning and untold bravery.

IT IS GROWING FAST

Cedar Bluff, the Katterjohn Settlement, Now a Post-Office.

Only a Matter of Time Until it is a Part of Princeton, Ky.

NOW ABOUT 60 HOUSES THERE

Cedar Bluff, the village at the Katterjohn Construction stone quarries near Princeton, Ky., has been made a postoffice and will hereafter be known as postoffice "O'Hara."

When the quarries were first started the construction company began the erection of many houses for residents and when it was seen that the town would grow Mr. Katterjohn immediately placed in a petition to have a postoffice established there which has been done. The railroad company today issued orders to erect a mail crane there, which is now being done, and hereafter the residents of Cedar Bluff will not have to go to Princeton to get their mail but will receive it at their own town.

Cedar Bluff is rapidly growing and within the past few months nearly 60 houses have been erected there. Mr. Katterjohn thinks that in time his town will have outgrown even Princeton or will have grown to Princeton, a distance of three miles, and become a suburb.

The Ubiquitous Scot.

Mr. J. Foster Fraser, who, not content with cycling around the world, lately returned from a railway trip through Siberia and other far eastern parts, tells a story about the ubiquity of the Scot. Once he landed at a place in the Persian Gulf which sounds like Banderabehn—even if it is not spelled so—and asked whether there was any Britisher about. He was directed to an isolated cottage or corrugated hut, which was the abode, he was assured, of a man who had been sent there to keep an eye on the plague. He knocked on the door and was invited to come in. "I hear you are a Britisher," he said; "my name is Fraser, and I come from Edinburgh." "Ah, that is interesting," said the solitary plague inspector, "my name is also Fraser, and I was born at Aberdeen."—London Chronicle.
